

EVALUATING YOUR 4-H PROJECT MEETING

THOMAS D. ZURCHER
Extension Specialist, 4-H Youth Development

"This was really a great meeting. I learned something and had a lot of fun. I can't wait to tell my friends what I got to do." 4-H Member

Comments like this one are often overheard by 4-H leaders who have involved the 4-H'ers and parents in a well planned, learn-by-doing 4-H meeting. These leaders point out several factors which they say contribute to successful "4-H'er centered" meetings. Listed below are ten criteria which you may find useful as you and your members plan and evaluate your meetings. By consciously striving to "Make The Best Better" more check marks will begin appearing after each meeting.

4-H MEETING CHECKLIST

The Members:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
1. Chose what they wanted to learn.....
2. Helped plan the meeting.....
3. Explored only one topic.....
4. Could apply what they learned to a real situation.....
5. Were allowed to learn-by-doing before being told or shown how.....
6. Had their questions answered with questions instead of answers.....
7. Interacted and shared ideas with each other.....
8. Developed important life skills. (see reverse).....
9. Were each encouraged and recognized in some way.....
10. Met the objectives outlined for the meeting.....
Total Checks .....

Overall Evaluation:	# of Checks	4-H'ers Description of Meeting
	9-10	Exciting
	7-8	Interesting
	4-6	Dull
	1-3	Boring

